IT CAN SERVE. Andover's sanitary disposal site off Chandler Road, can serve the community for several more years, according to a study committee. It will require acquisition of additional land. Here the site is seen where it is presently being operated as a land-fill operation, while in the background is the land which will be required to continue the operation which could save the town from joining in a regional incinerator proposal.

The Dump Can Last A While

Andover's sanitary land-fill disposal site--which in any other words means the dump--can serve the community for at least another ten years, possibly more.

This is the opinion of the committee appointed to study the problem of solid waste disposal locally--a problem facing all communities.

Joseph W. Odum, 11 Stevens Circle, a retired registered engineer, is chairman of the committee which has been studying the matter for several months.

He feels that with the acquisition of land adjacent to the present site off Chandler Road, that the sanitary land-fill location can serve the town for at least a decade.

The site would be operated as truly a land-fill operation, in other words, no burning.

Odum indicated that a lot of controls would have to be placed on the operation of the site.

For instance, at present there is a considerable amount of what could be described as imported material being deposited at the dump. This would have to be regulated.

There are ten disposal collectors operating within the community.

Stringent rules and regulations will have to be applied in order to lengthen the life of the site.

The committee has considered the problem for some time and thinks the community can avoid joining in a regional incinerator concept.

Mr. Odum feels that possibly

Bowen To Leave For Portsmouth

Town Manager Richard J. Bowen has been named city manager in Portsmouth, N.H.

The city council named Bowen on Tuesday, after Bowen had submitted his resignation to the selectmen here Monday night to be effective May 22.

Bowen, in his letter of resignation to the selectmen Monday night, said he would terminate his service here on April 30 due to "earned and accrued vacation leave due me."

The manager had indicated in March that he would not be a candidate for reappointment when his contract expired in July.

The town's second administrator under the town manager charter, will receive in the vicinity of $17,500 in his new position in Portsmouth. The salary is roughly equivalent of what he was receiving here, although he was given a salary increase by the selectmen in March.

Bowen was one of 44 candidates for the New Hampshire city post. The field was narrowed to four and a screening committee of the council visited communities from where the final choice was to be made.

Portsmouth has had an acting town manager for the past few months. Robert Violette, who was manager for over 16 years, died in January.

Chairman Robert Watters of the selectmen said that the board had submitted the local vacancy to the International City Manager's Association for advertisement in its

Red Sox Tickets To Be Awarded

George Haseltine chairman of the retail committee, has announced that the Red Sox ticket give away promotion will be conducted April 18, to Saturday, April 26.

On these days, people who shop in Andover are invited to deposit coupons in participating stores which will display red and white banners in their store windows.

Miss Florence Prevost, who taught in Andover's elementary school from 1898 until 1934, will celebrate her 100th birthday on April 25 at the home of her nephew, Major General R. F. Phelan, The Priory, St. Andrews East, Quebec, Canada.

Several of her pupils who kept in touch with their teacher received invitations to reception honoring Miss Prevost on her birthday from Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Phelan, with whom the retired school teacher makes her home.

One of these is Miss Catherine Barrett, principal of Andover's Central Elementary school. She remembers Miss Prevost as "a warm, motherly kind of person. Firm, but there was this warmth." Miss Barrett recalls that it was in the first grade, with Miss Prevost as her teacher, that she decided to become a teacher herself.

The four first and second grade classes met in the S. C. Jackson school in those days.

An Andover Address Is Prominent

The Town of Andover is the most widely known community in the northeast at his time of year for 18 million pieces of mail for "Andover" arrive at the Internal Revenue Service Center on Lowell street.

This week more than 2.5 million letters containing income taxes will be delivered to the Service Center from every city and town in the State of New York and the six New England states.

The big "last minute" rush to get the tax returns in before the April 15 deadline started this past weekend when 900 bags of mail containing 375,000 letters were received by the Center's Receipt and Control Branch headed by Laurent D. Bosse and his assistant Garry Swett an Andover resident.

As the week continued the accumulation of mail increased. There were 800 employees on duty

CHRIST CHURCH EPISCOPAL YOUNG PEOPLE
BAKERY SALE - SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 19th

Students To Visit In Quebec

Members of the French Club of the East Junior High school will leave Monday, April 21 for a five-day visit to Quebec.

Preference was given to the best French students in both eighth and ninth grades, since French only will be spoken during the trip. For several weeks, club members have been selling candy and a bake sale was also held to help finance the trip.

A school bus driven by M. Dumont, a French-speaking Quebecois, will be used and the chaperones will be French teachers: Mrs. Suzanne Coates, David Adelman, Mrs. Carolyn Warming-ton and her sister, Miss Renee Scarpito, a senior at Wellesley College, majoring in foreign languages.

Camp Nokomis Plans Reunion

The 1969 Camp Nokomis reunion will be held at the Lawrence YMCA on Saturday, April 19 from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This reunion is an annual affair for all campers, their friends, their parents and Camp Nokomis staff members.

The master of ceremonies will be Mrs. Debbie Parker, assisted by her husband, Bill Parker. Debbie Parker has been program director for Camp Nokomis for over 14 years. The program for the reunion will be as follows: 2 p.m., registration; 2:30 p.m., swim in the 'Y' pool; 3:15 p.m., question and answer period. Refreshments and meeting of the 1969 staff; 3:30 p.m., showing of the Camp Nokomis colored slides taken in 1968.

Last year, over a hundred different girls from the Greater Lawrence area attended Camp Nokomis.

Cash Balance Increases

A $30.7 million increase in the state's cash balance was reported today by State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane in his latest monthly report on the financial condition of the Commonwealth.

Treasurer Crane reported a cash balance of $101,813,863.25 for March as compared with one of $71,075,929.02 for February. It resulted, the State Treasurer pointed out, from a thirty million dollar increase in receipts over expenditure for March.

March disbursements, the report continues, were $306,126,021.12 and receipts were $336,863,955.35. A $20 million decrease in the state's total bonded indebtedness was also reported by Treasurer Crane. As of April 1 the Commonwealth's total bonded indebtedness was $1,046,996,000 and a year ago, the Treasurer's report states, it was $1,069,795,000.

HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Deyermund, 91 Elm St., Mrs. Mary D. Kaye, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Markert and son and daughter, spent Easter Sunday celebrating Mrs. Deyermund's 70th birthday at the family home.

At the peak of the depression of the 1930's, 25% of the nation's labor force was out of work. The unemployment rate in 1968 remained well under 4 percent.

Students Conduct Seminar On Draft At High School

Do you know how your son stands, as far as the draft is concerned - what his status is?

Have you any questions to ask of the top draft officials in the state?

They will be at the Student Activity Center, Andover High School, tonight, panelists in a draft seminar with a Quaker pacifist, a Marine recruiting officer, and two Phillips Academy seniors, one an Andover resident, who are interested in setting up a draft counseling service for young men who are residents of, or students in, the Andover community.

The adult public of Andover, and high school age students are invited to the 8 p.m. draft seminar in the large group room of the high school sponsored by members of the Student Activity Center, an operating arm of the town's recreation department.

Government officials participating will be John Donellon, chief of the field section of the United States Selective Service's Massachusetts

Headquarters, and, from the same office, Thomas Perkins, manpower officer specializing in conscientious objectors.

Quaker James Osterick of the American Friends Service Committee will represent the pacifist point of view, and Major Land, head Marine recruiter in Lawrence, who will send an aide from his office.

Students on the panel will be Peter Olney, 79 Shawsheen Road, and Jeff Kilbreth, seniors at Phillips Academy who have been instrumental in forming a draft counseling service at that school. PA Dean of Students John Richards said the draft counseling service was responsibly led, and the boys were appearing at the SAC draft seminar with PA faculty approval.

Dr. Greenberg To Again Head Watchdog Group

Dr. Albert J. Greenberg has been named chairman of the finance committee once again.

Dr. Greenberg headed the board this year. He said that the FinCom would reduce the tax rate from its original predicted hike of $13 and kept his promise.

He will again head the financial watchdog group which annually oversees the town's finances.

Edward Powers was elected secretary of the FinCom at the recent organizational meeting.

The Army's unique helicopter the "Flying Crane", has recovered more than 400 downed aircraft in Vietnam, the recovered craft having a total value of more than $221 million.

THE DUMP

the town will be faced with such a decision eventually, but at the present can live with what is already available.

The town meeting of 1964 approved funds for acquisition of additional property at the dump. Not all of the property was acquired at that time.

The additional acreage would extend the dump further into the woodland area, where the solid waste can be deposited and buried.

Several methods were examined by the committee.

The group considered and studied methods which would use atomic energy through which garbage would be processed. There were several other so-called "way-out" methods also examined, Mr. Odium said. While many of the methods seem far out now, they eventually will be serving the needs of many communities.

So, it appears, Andover may be fortunate, provided it acquires the land, in solving the ever growing problem of waste disposal.

Instead of the multi-million dollar participation in a regional incinerator, the town may have to spend only a few thousand to acquire land to expand its present facilities.

RED SOX

At the end of the seven-day promotion, 40 names will be drawn, each winner to receive a pair of reserved tickets to the May 3 Boston Red Sox - Detroit Tigers baseball game.

This promotion has been repeated this year because of its popularity in the past years.

As in past promotions, there is no obligation to purchase, only deposit coupons which appear in this edition of the Andover TOWNSMAN.

PARTICIPATION COMMUNICATION COOPERATION COORDINATION

Parish Council Conference Set

An examination and study of the Parish Council structure and its development in the Archdiocese of Boston will be the topic of a one-day Conference on the Parish Council to be held on May 3, 1969, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Christian Formation Center, River Road. All priests, religious, and laity of the Archdiocese are invited to participate in this program of vital importance sponsored by the Archdiocesan Councils of Catholic Men and Women under the direction of Rev. William L. Butler, moderator.

Richard Cardinal Cushing Archbishop of Boston, ordered that Parish Councils be established in every parish of the Archdiocese last October as a part of the overall Church Renewal program encouraged by Vatican Council II. With many parish councils already functioning and numerous others being formed, this Parish Council Conference will afford the participants an opportunity to share experiences as well as learn techniques of effective operation for a successful Parish Council.

The general session of the Conference will feature as speakers Richard H. Dement, head of field operations for the National Council of Catholic Men, Washington, D.C.; Sister Helen Mary, C.S.J., principal of Holy Name School, West Roxbury and member of the newly formed Archdiocesan Commission for the Promotion of Parish Councils, and George M. Collins, religion editor for the Boston Globe. Mr. Thomas Simmons Esq. of Boston, president of the Council of Catholic Men and Mrs. Everett J. Bartlett of Marblehead, president of the Council of Catholic Women, will be co-chairmen of the conference program. The general chairman of the program is Mrs. Richard J. Monahan of Chelmsford, vice-president of the Council of Catholic Women.

The afternoon session of the conference which follows a luncheon for all participants, will present a series of workshops from which participants will select specific areas of individual concern. Workshops topics available in Session I include: group dynamics in the Parish Council; religious education and the Parish Council; Parish Council procedures; pitfalls and practical problems, the priest and the Parish Council; and the functioning Parish Council. Workshop Session II topics will include adult and youth religious education programs; ecumenical programs and the Parish Council; liturgical programs; communications within the parish; parish public relations, human rights programs, and parish administration.

All interested clergy, religious, and laity are invited to participate in this Conference. Information and tickets may be obtained by visiting, writing, or calling the office of the Archdiocesan Councils of Catholic Men and Women, 49 Franklin St., Boston (02110).

Holy Cross Club Plans Concert

The Holy Cross Club of the Merrimack Valley will sponsor a concert on Saturday evening, April 19, featuring the combined glee clubs of Holy Cross College and Annhurst College. The concert, to be held at the North Andover High School Auditorium, will begin at 8:30. Tickets will be available at the door. Proceeds will benefit the club's scholarship fund.

Featured will be show tunes, spirituals and popular music, and the concert will conclude with Frostiana, an adaptation of several of the poems of Robert Frost set to music.

Andon Fourth

Andon Society completed the screening program of amblyopia defects in four children.

Working in cooperation with the Andover Board of Health, the Andover Society of Blindness, a volunteer organization, tried to solve the problem of youngsters, at a time when it is usually when defects are "ferred" for professional help.

Screenings were held at the Parish Nurse's Church, Nurse's Jewish Community Center, and at the Pike's all prior to the opening of the program offered by the Church.

The Society of Blindness sponsors a course yearly to learn the techniques of visual defects as "lazy eye" and the Andon Society members taken the course and acted as teachers. The group includes Mrs. James Reid, Mrs. James Reid, Mrs. Joseph Noe, Mrs. Frederick Nowe, Mrs. Robichaud, Mrs. Jr., Mrs. Jerald, Frank Reynolds, Rutter Jr., Mrs. Mrs. Robert L. Gump, Mrs. Fr. John Atanasoff, Seewald, Mrs. Ja. Richard Savran, Muldoon, Mrs. J.

Andona Group Conducts Fourth Eye-Screening Test

Andona Society members have completed the fourth annual eye-screening program for the detection of amblyopia and other visual defects in four and five year old children.

Working in cooperation with the Andover Board of Health and the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the local civic organization tries to pinpoint eye problems in pre-school youngsters, at an age when correction is usually simple and sure when defects are caught and "referred" for professional care.

Screenings were held at West Parish Nursery School, Free Church Nursery School, The Jewish Community Nursery School and at the Pike Nursery School, all prior to the free screening, open to the public, in facilities offered by Christ Episcopal Church.

The Society for the Prevention of Blindness sponsors a training course yearly for volunteers to learn the technique for detecting visual defects at an early age, such as "lazy eye" or amblyopia. Andona Society members who have taken the course in recent years and acted as trained screeners include Mrs. Jerald Hartrich, Mrs. James Reid, Mrs. Edward Stupack, Mrs. William Bride, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Normandy Jr., Mrs. Frederick Nowell Jr., Mrs. David Robichaud, Mrs. Wilfred Mackie Jr., Mrs. Jerald Cornwell, Mrs. Frank Reynolds, Mrs. Harold Rutter Jr., Mrs. Richard Secord, Mrs. Robert Look, Mrs. David Gump, Mrs. Francis Witt, Mrs. John Atanasoff, Mrs. Brewster Seewald, Mrs. James Stamas, Mrs. Richard Savrann, Mrs. Arthur Muldoon, Mrs. James Munn, Mrs.

Robert Macartney.

The avowed purpose of the Andona Society (AN, for Andover, and DONA for the Latin, give) is to aid the youth of Andover. Besides amblyopia, scouts, hospital, Red Cross, Andover Y, Junior Great Books, members contribute efforts to raising money for two high school scholarships for graduating seniors, and camperships for worthy children in the summer through Clown Town in May and a fall dance.

The most recent civic project, involving eye screening, was directed by Mrs. F. J. Hill Jr., assisted by Mrs. John Atchison, Mrs. John Niceforo, and Mrs. Bruce Taylor. Members of the society assisting in the nursery and townwide program this month includes: Mrs. John Avery, Mrs. Leslie Bartow, Mrs. Charles Capetta, Mrs. Sanford Carlisle, Mrs. James Conroy, Mrs. Thomas Darby, Mrs. David Erickson, Mrs. Leonard Gardner, Mrs. James Gilen, Mrs. Tilliam Harter, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. Rudolph Morin, Mrs. Richard Mower, Mrs. John Petty, Mrs. Clinton Sealey, Mrs. James Stamas, Mrs. Theodore Taylor, Mrs. Charles Fleming, Mrs. Roland Johnson, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. John Porlowski, Mrs. Richard Coombes and Mrs. Thomas Swift.

NEAR GOAL

Co-Operative Art Studio To Meet

There will be a meeting on Monday, April 21 at 8:30 in Deborah Bluestein's Studio at 93 Main St. to discuss the formation of a co-operative art studio. The tentative plan is to occupy the facilities at 93 Main St., holding workshop classes in arts and crafts, including sculpture, pottery, silk-screening, block printing, etc., stressing experimentation in various media.

Teachers will include Gerald Shertzer, Herschel Sternlieb, Beth Myszewski, Dick McDonald and Carol Kaplan.

In addition to classes, members will have free access to the Studio facilities. There will be a variety of summer activities for children.

Anyone interested in any aspect of this co-operative venture, including, teaching, managing, financing or membership may attend the Monday night meeting.

Musical To Be Presented

The Garrett players will stage their first musical production, "Little Mary Sunshine," book, music and lyrics by Rick Besoyan at Turn Hall, 44 Park St., Lawrence on Friday, April 25 and Saturday, April 26 at 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday, April 27 at 6:30 p.m. "Little Mary Sunshine" is a lively, musical spoof, based on an old familiar story of yesteryear. It all takes place high in the Rocky Mountains, with Mary Potts, foster child of Chief Brown Bear of the Kadota Indians, all grown up and present owner of the Colorado Inn. Mary is surrounded by an assortment of distressing situations and terrifying moments - just as all heroines will be. Naturally, romance must enter the picture and does, in the form of Capt. "Big Jim", of the Forest Rangers, who appears on the scene in frantic search of a notorious band of Indians. For the discriminate theatre-goer who enjoys subtle satire and a colorful array of characters frolicking amidst gay staging and a delightfully musical atmosphere, "Little Mary Sunshine" will warm the heart. Directing the musical is Mrs. Enid Steele of Lawrence, who has long been associated with the Garrett and assisting her are Mrs. Bernice Summers of North Andover, Chorus director and rehearsal pianist; John E. Harrington of Chelmsford, musical director; Ernest Houle of Lowell, both rehearsal and show pianist and Michael Kelley of Lawrence, choreographer.

The leading role will be played by Mary Monazynski of Lowell, who assists with the Garrett Drama Workshop for Children and her co-star is Thomas Comer, also of Lowell. Major roles will be performed by Mrs. Christine (Walent) McAlevy of Lawrence, Mrs. Zari Bogosian of Methuen, John J. Sarro Jr. of Dracut and F. John Osborne of Groveland. Supporting players are Albert E. Buzzell of Goffstown, N. H., David Saul of Lowell and Michael Kelley. Members of the chorus include Mrs. Virginia Montella, Marie Salvo, Joanne Lovocchio and Laurence E. D. Collopy of Lawrence; Mrs. Bernice Summers; Mrs. Virginia Burk of Dracut; Kathleen Pigeon, Thomas Senior, Donald LePage and George Crawford of Lowell; Donna Lariviere of Methuen; Timothy James Comeau of Bradford; Jeff Sargent of Plaistow, N. H. and Timothy P. Myette of Westville, N. H. The prologue will be delivered by Eileen Quinn of North Reading. Reservations may be made by contacting any member of the Garrett Players. All season ticket holders are requested to reserve their seat as soon as possible.

State Revenue Hike Subject Of Coffee House

How to raise revenues in Massachusetts without overburdening the homeowner and ordinary taxpayer is the subject at Friday evening's People's Choice coffee house.

Rep. Anthony Di Fruscia of Lawrence will speak on his proposal now before the Joint Committee on Taxation, for a 1 percent employer tax on employees' gross wages. Rep. Di Fruscia's proposal is a challenge to Gov. Sargent's bill for a 14 per cent surtax. Di Fruscia feels that most new tax proposals favor the higher income groups and hurt the ordinary taxpayer.

Mr. Di Fruscia is serving his second term as representative from the 14th Essex District. He received his BA from Emerson College and his LLB from New England Law School.

The People's Choice opens at 8:30 p.m. and the formal program begins about 9:15. It is held at the Unitarian Universalist Church, Lowell St. in Andover. The public is invited to attend.

40 Ind Honor

Last Tuesday 40 Andover High and seniors were inducted into the Andover Chapter Honor Society. The ceremony was held in the Andover High Auditorium, with the 40 students and their families, faculty, and the 40 students' parents. The ceremony was staged by the Andover High Honor Society, under the guidance of Mrs. Hayes, faculty advisor.

The program featured a salute to the 40 members of the Honor Society. The opening address was given by Gary Sargent, president of the Andover Honor Society. The program included a welcome to the new members, a presentation of the society's history, and a presentation of the society's goals. The ceremony was presided over by the faculty advisor, Mrs. Hayes.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Andover High Auditorium. The 40 new members of the Honor Society were presented with their membership certificates. The ceremony was a success, and the 40 new members of the Honor Society were welcomed to the society.

The induction of the 40 new members of the Andover Chapter Honor Society was a significant event for the school. The ceremony was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the 40 new members, and a celebration of their achievement.

Senior member Jorie Cowdery read the induction ceremony. The inductees, each of whom had been recommended by their teachers, were presented with their membership certificates by the faculty advisor, Mrs. Hayes.

Before the closing ceremony, the 40 new members of the Honor Society were presented with a gift. The gift was a book by the author, which was a fitting tribute to the new members.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, a reception was held in the Andover High Auditorium. The 40 new members of the Honor Society were welcomed to the society, and the ceremony was a success.

40 Inducted Into National Honor Society At Ceremony

Last Tuesday evening, April 8, 40 Andover High School juniors and seniors were inducted into the Andover Chapter of the National Honor Society. In a traditional and solemn candlelight ceremony held in the Andover West Junior High Auditorium, before a gathering of faculty, parents and friends, the 40 students, including two honorary inductees, joined the ranks of the 17 Andover High seniors presently in the society. The ceremony was planned and staged by the senior members under the guidance of Miss Louise Hayes, faculty adviser.

The program began with the salute to the flag led by senior member Beth Gower, and a brief opening address by master of ceremonies Gary Tomlinson, president of the Andover High National Honor Society. His remarks included a welcome and brief explanation of the principles of the society into which students are inducted based on "scholarship, leadership, character and service," judged and recommended by the faculty.

Following the opening words senior member Douglas Koza delivered an original essay, "Education."

The ceremony then proceeded to the traditional lighting of candles, each symbolizing one of the principles of the society. As each of five senior members lit one candle he recited a short passage describing the quality that his candle symbolized; lighting the candle of Education was Patricia Neil; of Character, Kathleen O'Connor; of Scholarship, Bruce Alexander; of Leadership, Chester Bisbee; and of Service, Randall Thompkins, all senior members.

The induction of new members followed. As senior member Marjorie Cowdery read the names of the inductees, each new member mounted the stairs to the stage to sign the National Honor Society Register and to receive his certificate and pin from senior members Stephen Bull and Paula Tatarunis. President Tomlinson then led the group in the National Honor Society Pledge.

Senior member Susan Hadam then introduced the keynote speaker; addressing the students and parents was Peter Dustin, assistant director of admissions at Boston University.

Before the closing of the ceremony, entertainment was provided by folk-guitarist Catherine Close and pianist Sarah Pingree, a member of the society.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception, prepared by the present senior members, was held in the cafeteria.

Inductees included: Juniors - Margaret M. Arnold, George P. Bancroft, Gail R. Blumberg, Stephen L. Cooper, Janet E. Cromie, Kathleen Downs, Susan E. Dye, Elizabeth-Ellen Hills, David M. Johnson, Elizabeth L. Kyger, Carl E. Levick, Joyce E. Milligan, Christine L. Palmer, Kevin V. Pelletier, Gail Porter, Marilyn Sabbagh, Leon E. Sharpe, Robert D. Tasillo, Regon Unsoeld and Barbara H. ## Rev. Dr. Cox To Begin Lecture Series Here Sunday

Four speakers, nationally famous in their fields, will come to Andover the next four Sunday evenings to address the public in the Andover Forum, a new public lecture series underwritten by the Unitarian-Universalist Church.

They are Rev. Dr. Harvey Cox, called "American Protestantism's most influential younger theologian," Boston cultural leader Elma Lewis, Massachusetts Education Commissioner Dr. Neil Sullivan and Boston Redevelopment Director C. Hale Champion.

Each week, a speaker will address the problem: "Urban/Suburban Responsibilities, A Two-Way Street" from his own field of competence and experience. Each week a small group of Andover citizens prominent in the speaker's field, will "react" to the speaker's remarks, and the audience also will be encouraged to ask specific questions.

Dr. Harvey Cox, professor of Divinity in the Divinity School at Harvard University, will speak first this Sunday, April 20 at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian-Universalist Church on Lowell Street. Cox gained international attention and acclaim with publication of his book "The Secular City".

Dr. Cox, an ordained Baptist minister who calls for both social relevance and internal re-creation of worship in the church, has many articles to his credit in Life, Look, Redbook, Commonweal, Christian Scholar, Christian Century and Playboy.

"Reactors" to Dr. Cox's address this Sunday evening will be Rev. Paul Keyes, assistant at St. Robert Bellarmine Parish, Rev. J. Allyn Bradford, minister of the Free Christian Church and Rabbi Harry Roth of Temple Emanuel in Lawrence.

The Andover Forum is a project of the Adult Programs Committee of the Unitarian-Universalist Church.

list Church, aided by the cooperation of other interested citizens. Its purpose is to bring prominent speakers on issues of significant concern to Merrimack Valley residents.

The Adult Programs Committee said that purchase of a single ticket covers all four sessions of the Andover Forum, and emphasized that all proceeds are strictly reserved for continued underwriting and promotion of future sessions of The Andover Forum.

Elma Lewis will follow Dr. Cox on April 27. She is founder and director of the Elma Lewis School of Fine Arts whose alumni have gained eminence on the Broadway stage and in dance companies across the land. Her school is becoming a learning center for the visual and performing arts for Boston's black community.

Neil Sullivan is a Manchester, N. H. native who gained fame as the man who helped the Berkeley California, school system to become the first fully integrated major school system in the country. Sullivan, who took office as the state commissioner of education a few months ago, said last year: "I will not wait for a consensus to develop. The city will burn before a consensus develops. It is the job of leaders to mold consensus."

Hale Champion became director of the BRA when Kevin White became mayor. He was formerly California State Director of Finance - the top appointive post in that state. Daniel P. Moynihan, now presidential assistant to President Nixon, says, Champion is one of "the special breed in American government who manage the work of government from non-elective positions . . . There aren't five (of these men in America with a higher reputation than Hale Champion."

The Andover Post Office, headed by Postmaster Francis J. Mooney, received praise this week from IRS Director Norman E. Morrill "for the efficiency with which the mail has been handled and the overall cooperation which Postmaster Mooney and his personnel have given IRS."

The IRS not only receives millions of letters but it also mails millions. This year 30 million pieces of mail will be sent from the Service Center and its Lawrence facility to taxpayers throughout the North Atlantic Region.

Robert Prescott of the local Post Office is on duty at the Center coordinating the mail operation.

The Service Center is currently employing 4500 persons to help process 13.5 million individual and 4.5 million business returns. Yesterday the IRS announced it is in need of clerk typists.

Family Camp

Reunion Set

Many families who attended family camp at Camp Lawrence and Camp Nokomis last summer plan to hold an Annual Family Camp reunion at the Lawrence YMCA Saturday evening, April 19 beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Last year, 42 different families attended family camps and the 'Y' hopes that many of them will attend the reunion. The program calls for a roast beef dinner at 6:30 p.m. followed by highlights of the 1968 family camp season with the showing of some of the colored slides taken last summer on Bear Island. Reservations for the family camp reunion dinner must be made in advance at the Lawrence YMCA.

Troop 70 Scouts Win Honors

Two Scouts of Troop 70 of Andover received recognition last Friday, at the regular meeting of the troop. Mark Fleischer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fleischer of Andover received his Tenderfoot badge. The Tenderfoot badge is presented to the Scout on the basis of his Scouting knowledge and ability and marks the beginning of his advancement in the scouting program.

The second recognition went to Robert Battles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Battles of Andover. Battles was elected to the Order of the Arrow, the National Scouting Fraternity of Scouts and Scouters. This organization is based on the twin concepts of brotherhood and service. Membership is attained through excellence in the scouting program and dedication to its goals. Battles will be received into membership in June at the North Essex Council camp, Camp On-way.

In addition to these events, a discussion and demonstration of back packing and camping techniques was presented by Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Philip Geisler.

Geisler, in drawing on his experiences at Philmont Scout Ranch, New Mexico, is helping to prepare the troop for its week-long excursion this summer on the mountain trails of Vermont.

On Saturday, the boys of the troop conducted a spaghetti supper to help finance this trip.

Promoted By Western

Maurice D. Wheeler, 6 Embassy Lane, assistant manager, manufacturing - transmission apparatus, at the Merrimack Valley Works of Western Electric, has been promoted to the position of manager, service, Atlanta, Southern Region, effective April 15, 1969.

Mr. Wheeler joined Western Electric in 1956 as a staff trainee in the installation division at St. Louis. In 1957, he was transferred to Installation at Kansas City, where he held various supervisory posts prior to returning to St. Louis as department chief, technical coordination in 1965. He was promoted to assistant manager in September, 1965, working in training development, service west staff, where he was responsible for the college graduate development program. He was assigned to the management training program at Western Electric headquarters in New York City in January, 1967. In June of that year, he was assigned to the Merrimack Valley Works as assistant manager, manufacturing - transmission apparatus.

He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Northwest Missouri State and worked for his Master's degree at the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

He served with the Merchant Marine from 1945 to 1947. From 1950 to 1953, he served with the U. S. Army Reserves, holding the rank of captain in the signal corps.

Mr. Wheeler and his wife, the former Sharlis Marple, have one son, Bob, 15.

Long active in Boy Scouting, presently a committee member for Explorer Post 90, he lists skiing and scuba diving as his hobbies.

Bluebird Trails Established

Perhaps you've never heard of a bluebird trail.

T. E. Musselman of Quincy, Illinois, generally is credited with the first bluebird trail which he created by nailing 25 bluebird nesting boxes to fence posts along five miles or so of back country road. That was in 1934 when fence posts still were both common and wooden. When spring arrived Musselman had the pleasure of driving along the road and seeing dozens of bluebirds perched along utility wires that had not supported bluebirds for years.

There are a few bluebird trails in New England. One of the better-known bluebird trail builders is Ray VanVorse of Maynard, Massachusetts, who adds to a string of bluebird boxes annually.

The idea behind the bluebird trail stems from the desire to re-establish within the region a beautiful and useful bird that once was most common.

Before the Civil War, wholesale meat markets in Boston, Concord, Hartford, Portland and Providence often handled bluebirds by the barrel for those who preferred something choicer than four and twenty blackbirds in their pies. The bluebird was so common in dooryards that it served as the New England symbol of spring -- the common bird of late March and early April that everyone knew.

Today bluebirds are so uncommon that most persons must resort to the pictures in a bird book to determine whether the unusual bird they saw actually was a bluebird. Some even confuse the blue jay with the bluebird.

As early as the 1870s, H. D. Minot in his manual of New England birds noted signs that the newly-arrived English sparrow seemed to be ousting bluebirds from nesting cavities and bird boxes. Since then the competition has been increased by another foreign import, the starling. To add to the catastrophe, the old, rotting apple tree whose hollow limbs were favorite bluebird nest sites now have been replaced by the neatly pruned tree soaked in pesticides. It all adds up to very little room for and a rather poor welcome to bluebirds each spring in New England.

To help reverse this trend, one need not build a bluebird trail. Instead, one might lay down a single footprint by erecting one bluebird box in the backyard. If enough New Englanders hammer together a few bluebird boxes, the whole region eventually will become laced with bluebird trails.

Sawing a 48-inch long, one-by-six inch pine or spruce board into a bluebird box is so simple that even a few women can nail the pieces together. The Massachusetts Audubon Society has cutting diagrams that illustrate every detail. The sheet also contains considerable information about bluebirds. For a free copy, send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Bluebirds, Massachusetts Audubon Society, South Great Road, Lincoln, Mass. 01773.

To attract bluebirds to your yard, you must act immediately. Early male bluebirds usually arrive in New England in March. The females arrive about two weeks later. They spend considerable time scouting around for likely nesting sites before making a decision. But, your bluebird box must be up during the period to get into the contest.

Few of us can expect the luck that the Vermont naturalist Ronald Rood once had. He heard a bluebird singing in the yard and ran out and nailed up a bluebird box. Before he had returned to the house, the bluebird was inside the box inspecting it.

With home burglaries and car thefts on the increase, more and more products and systems are being developed to protect against thieves. But you needn't spend much money to guarantee safety for your belongings.

Here are some expert's tips worth latching onto.

A snap lock is not adequate for your doors because it can be forced when a strip of celluloid is pushed through the slot between the door and the door frame. That's why experts recommend both chain locks and chain bolts. Bolts, attached to a welded chain, which extends from the door to inside the door frame cannot be readily forced open, and also give you the opportunity to see who is calling when you answer the door.

Casement windows that open inward may be secured with a horizontal length of chain. And you can provide additional security for double hung windows by fastening links of chain between wooden window frame and trim in the same manner as your doors are secured.

And if you own a car port, experts say use a chain padlock between posts. Even if a thief is able to jump start your car, the chain will prevent him from backing it out without the padlock key. In your garage, chain your expensive gardening tools such as power mowers and your children's bikes, and padlock them too. That will prevent a pick-up you didn't quite expect.

Your local hardware store can help you select chains that are best suited to many security and decorative uses in your home. And help with installation and accessory suggestions.

So link up with chains—for safety's sake.

Coeducation Can Be Fun

By Helen Eccles

Abbot and Phillips Academy students are dallying with coeducation this week, and finding it fun.

The administrations of the two independent boarding schools had already begun exploring arrangements for joint classes in certain areas for next year. The aim seems to be for actual coeducation - (one coed school) - but coordination--the sharing of facilities and many activities, and specialized upper level courses - between two schools who would lean on each other's strengths but keep their individual characters.

But youth is impatient, especially if it fears that its section of the passing parade will have passed through the graduating gates before the "well-coordinated" student body has become a reality. A PA group petitioned for a "co-ed week" with the girls' school a few hundred yards away.

Perhaps they also felt that the school administrations needed to be convinced that closer academic association would not produce dire academic results, such as complete distraction, inattention, or vicious intellectual competition between the sexes.

Perhaps to their surprise, the graybeards at both schools agreed, on the theory that while one week of opening classes to students from the opposite gender school wouldn't have any measurable educational value at all, it wouldn't do any harm, probably would do some good, paving the way for closer coordination in the future, and ought to be fun.

PA students can attend Abbot's classes this week and vice versa, provided they don't miss any regular academic appointments in their own school. Approximately 100 students are exchanging schools for dinner as well, girls are welcomed to the PA Underwood Room for the seniors' morning coffee and for after-supper get-togethers, and boys are appearing at Abbot for morning snack and any other free period they can muster.

But the curious citizen who wandered onto the Abbot campus this week found that students who did sample the fare of the other school were delighted to give their reactions. Several Phillips students on prominent display on the grass of Abbot's central campus greeted a reporter with enthusiasm; their complaint was that they wanted more of the same thing.

Eleventh grader Charles Finch, president of WPAA, the PA student radio FM station, Brad Upton and Chip Bates pointed out that the administrations "could have helped us more by coordinating the schedules of the two schools this week", but felt the coed classes this week would show that administration "fears of excess competition" were groundless. They were most enthusiastic about the dinner exchanges, and lauded the "civilized meals" at Abbot. Finch admitted that you had to be on your toes to recall the social graces (which are not in constant practice in the PA Commons dining) but said the boys enjoyed the effort. Upton claimed that female-less education bred undesirable attitudes of male chauvinism and male superiority.

Abbot exchangers Tobin Solomon, Wendy Ewald also bemoaned that the week was not really a good trial, not long enough, with not enough planning. Wendy felt it was enough of a trial, however, "to break down a lot of myths." What kind of myths? "About how intelligent all those PA boys are." Lisa Doyle had visited PA classes too, but loyally felt that Abbot classes were "freer, more creative and more appealing to students, while PA classes were more critical and structured."

Leslie Breed of Swampscott felt there were great possibilities in future coordination, that the combined facilities of the two schools would be impressive.

The students might be surprised to find that the school administrations were already convinced of the gains the students hoped to prove. Abbot's headmaster Donald Gordon said the administration already knew that "more of this kind of thing is needed, instead of less," the students knew beforehand that it would be fun. "The experience is probably being most valuable of all to teachers getting a preview of teaching classes with both boys and girls in them. It's different." Gordon feels the old rationalizations for separate education are nonsense.

Headmaster John Kemper said he saw no reason not to give the students this chance to get inside the other school and see what it was like. Dean John Richards agreed with Abbot's headmaster, "It was the adults who got the learning experience. It got everybody used to having girls on campus. It also proved that not every student idea gets shot down."

But it was Abbot student Wendy Ewald who let the cat out of the bag when she mentioned she is already in a regularly scheduled coed class. PA instructor Frederic Pease is teaching a combined religion class this term of Abbot and Phillips students. Coordination has arrived!

CATS ARE NOT COLOR BLIND.

Hot Chambers

The thrust chambers used in the first stage of Project Apollo's Saturn rocket must withstand heat of 5,000°F—half the temperature on the sun's surface. The fuel is used as a coolant by circulating it through tubular thrust chamber walls made of a high-temperature nickel-chromium alloy. This cooling system lowers the thrust chamber walls to a mere 1,000°F.

Vendor Awards Presented By Raytheon

Four subcontractors to Raytheon Company's Missile Systems Division Andover, plant have been presented Vendor Excellence Awards for continued excellent performance in supplying material to the company.

The awards were made by Andover Plant Manager Joseph Glasser at a luncheon reception at the Lanam Club.

The suppliers were: Semtech Corporation, Newbury Park, Calif.; CTSElectronics, Inc., South Pasadena, Calif.; Delevan Electronics Division of American Precision Industries, Inc., East Aurora, N. Y.; and Richard H. Bird and Company, Inc., Waltham.

The Vendor Excellence Award is for quality of product, delivery performance, and cooperative action over a period of one year. The vendor evaluation program at Raytheon is an important element in the company's Product Excellence Program, the goal of which is to insure the production of highly reliable products.

The evaluation program includes a three month performance check and summary. At this time, if the effectiveness index indicates a certain level of performance, a certificate of appreciation is awarded to qualifying vendors.

The evaluation includes continual inspection and quality rating of material supplied to the company, comparison of defects, and summary comparisons over a period of time to see if there is a reduction in the number of defects and if corrective actions have been taken.

Cukes Feature Market List

A heavy influx of native greenhouse cucumbers features this week's list of "Best Buys" announced by the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture. Unlike shipped-in cucumbers, which are waxed to reduce desiccation, native greenhouse cucumbers are not waxed, hence they are not sticky to the touch and even the skin has a delightful tanginess and mild flavor to the firm, juicy slices. Native cukes are known to be the mildest, sweetest on the market and make a definite difference in appetite appeal.

Fresh native eggs are plentiful and low priced, with extra large size an unusually good buy this week. Controlled atmosphere McIntosh, Rome, Cortland and Delicious apples are another big headliner in native produce. While the last of so-called "regular McIntosh" and Delicious apples from standard storage are on produce counters in good supply and economical prices. Both spring dug and winter parsnips are in good volume at reasonable prices, along with turnips, greenhouse lettuce and watercress. The "unseasonable" February weather slowed up the maturing of our greenhouse tomato crop to the point where first arrivals are not expected until April 25, with a good supply forecast for May 1.

A tasty spring treat homemakers will want to try with warmer temperatures is apple ginger sparkle:

Core and slice 3 apples. Combine with sections from 6 tangerines in sherbet glasses. Top with 6 maraschino cherries, one per serving. Fill glasses with ice cold ginger ale. Makes an unusual first course for 6 persons.

If you've ever wondered whether "an apple a day" would really make you feel better, chew on this: an experiment with college students showed that those in a group eating 2 or 3 apples a day had less than half as many colds and headaches and showed less tension than those in a control group who went without apples.

(Taurus, April 21-May 21)

Stability and determination are the main traits of those born under the sign Taurus, while their color is pink, their birthstone an emerald, and their flower the hyacinth, according to FTD florists.

Taurus people are constant, careful and cautious, and they rarely act impetuously - their actions stem from accumulated experience.

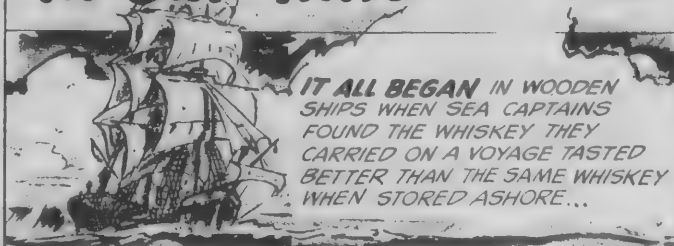

With their systematic methods and perseverance, Taureans make good builders and conservers of the earth.

But a Taurean must take care that his determination does not become obstinacy and his deliberateness does not become unimaginative.

Taurus people are generally associated with materialism and practicality.

In Our Time

IT ALL BEGAN IN WOODEN SHIPS WHEN SEA CAPTAINS FOUND THE WHISKEY THEY CARRIED ON A VOYAGE TASTED BETTER THAN THE SAME WHISKEY WHEN STORED ASHORE...

"THE CRADLE OF THE DEEP" MOTION, CONSTANTLY TURNING THE AGING WHISKEY AS IT MELLOWED IN ITS WOODEN CASK, MADE A DIFFERENCE...

SOME RETIRED SEA CAPTAINS WOULD LASH FULL KEGS TO ROCKING CHAIRS TO GET THE SAME RESULT...

OTHERS WOULD ROPE A KEG OR TWO TO TREES TO LET THE WIND AGITATE THEIR WHISKEY...

COMMERCIAL EFFORTS TO DUPLICATE THIS PROCESS HAVE RANGED FROM MECHANICAL ROCKERS TO FLOATING WAREHOUSES, BUT ALL FAILED.

25 YEARS AGO, A BOSTON DISTILLER FOUND A WAY TO CAPTURE THIS LEGENDARY FLAVOR... AS A TRIBUTE TO THE OLD SEA CAPTAINS, THE WHISKEY IS NOW BEING ASKED FOR AS OLD BOSTON ROCKING CHAIR.

Yes, YOU CAN!

Think you can't entertain elegantly on short notice? Yes, you can.

Keep one shelf and one corner of your cupboard stocked with your favorite canned foods. Then when unexpected guests drop in - these quick tricks will spell out your social success story.

1. Crabmeat Casserole Supreme (Serves 4)
- 2 - 8 oz. cans crabmeat
- 1 can condensed cream of tomato soup
- 1 can condensed split pea soup
- 1 jigger Harveys Bristol Cream
- ½ tsp. curry powder
- ½ tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1 cup cream (light or heavy as desired)

Remove membrane from crabmeat. Mix all ingredients together and heat in a shallow casserole in a medium oven (about 350 degrees) for 20 to 25 minutes. Serve with noodles, a green salad and canned pineapple soaked in rum. Result: A taste triumph to please your most finicky friends.

Candlepin Classic Due In Lawrence

The best of New England's candlepin bowling breed will be on hand at the 60-lanes Lawrence Recreation Center on Sunday, April 20 bidding for one of candlepin bowling's most coveted awards, the James Ross Memorial New England Candlepin Classic.

The Championship, of which Sunday's represents the 15th Edition, is a ten-string test across ten lanes. It will be contested in two shifts scheduled to get underway at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Charles Jutras of Agawam, whose 1304 carried off top money plus a wristwatch a year ago, is due back for another run at the winner's check of $500 guaranteed. Also expected back are runner-up Frank Malski of Danvers, whose 1282 earned him $250 and a silver tray, and third-place finisher Gary Duffett of Nashua, N. H., who chalked up 1279 worth $90 and a Revere bowl.

As was the case in the 1968 renewal of the tournament, the entry fee of $15 includes bowling and expenses.

Although many followers of this candlepin classic are rating Joe Donovan as the bowler to beat this trip, others feel that the sternest competition is apt to come from Tony Baldinelli of Amesbury and Mike Saniuk of Dorchester. In the 1961 tournament, Bob Bows racked up the classic's all-time high tally of 1341 that was topped by Bob Kelly's 1349 in the 1963 classic.

Still others who should rate as definite threats for the 1969 title include Ed Bosco of West Roxbury; Bill Erkinen of Stow; Rosario Lechiara of Newton; Roger Fitzgerald of Manchester, N. H.; Charles H. Milan, III of Brewer, Maine; Leo Richard of Fitchburg; and Norm LaRoche of Salem, N. H.

The average U.S. Army soldier costs $6,830 to pay and equip for one year: $3,000 for his basic salary, the remainder for equipment, benefits, food, medical care and housing.

Fitting Man's Work Into Nature

What does America's newest and most western region - Hawaii - have in common with America's oldest and most eastern region - New England?

Hawaii also has the tourist boom - and the tourist problem.

The big question in both Hawaii and New England is: How can we lure the tourist and his dollar, but also preserve the natural beauty which brought the tourists here in the first place?

Hawaii is experimenting with some interesting new answers, which old New England should be watching carefully.

The December issue of Architectural Record reproduced detailed photos, maps, and plans of the newly released Hawaiian Environmental Studies reports commissioned by the State of Hawaii's Foundation on Culture and the Arts. This is the latest in a series of studies exploring ways to keep Hawaii's unique atmosphere while providing for economic development. The new reports provide specific design criteria to suggest ways for man's buildings and developments to enhance, rather than destroy, natural beauty.

An earlier "Visitor Destination Area" study suggested places where private enterprise and state park, road, and recreational development could work hand in hand for economic growth and environmental quality.

Elisabeth K. Thompson, senior editor of Architectural Record, comments, "Even a thriving economy - and tourism is reviving the economy in many places - can encounter problems. Since resorts usually are located where there is natural beauty of some sort, the question is inevitable: How can a beautiful place be developed without being spoiled?"

"Hawaii's two pioneering tools, the State General Plan and the Land Use Law (Hawaii was the first state to enact such legislation) have respectively done much to set goals and high standards for development and to set the boundaries for the state's four zoning categories," Mrs. Thompson suggests the additional need for a natural resources inventory, so that fragile natural environments will not be wrecked by sheer ignorance.

Hawaii is tackling the problem of keeping its tropical character in man-made developments, just as New England is tackling the problem of preserving the attractiveness of its old New England character. But Hawaii isn't just talking vague ideals - it's getting down to the nitty gritty.

New England is starting to plan, too. Maine is studying ways and means of keeping the coastline beautiful by bringing in tourists and providing for industrial development. Massachusetts and other New England states are looking into methods of keeping beauty while encouraging industrialization along the new interstate highways.

And only Hawaii and Vermont have had the courage and foresight to ban billboards so that tourists and natives alike could enjoy the unique natural beauty of those two states.

Ducks Face Uncertain Future

The ducks now flying northward over New England face an uncertain future. The problem lies in the fact that ducks are uncomplicated creatures. Most of them nest beside water, get most of their food from beneath water, spend most of their lives upon water - and show no intention of changing their ways. Unfortunately, the condition of water and lands adjoining water are changing radically, and against the interests of ducks.

At the recent North American Wildlife Conference in Washington, the sessions devoted to duck problems probably were the least cheerful of the lot. Wetland specialists reported constant attrition of marshes, which are principal duck habitat. Water experts delineated the extensive pollution of estuaries, which are duck wintering grounds and migration rest stops. Economists worried about increased degradation of farm crops by ducks. Ballistics experts discussed the yet unsolved problem of producing inexpensive shotgun shells without the use of lead pellets which shower marshes and later poison ducks which eat them, mistaking them for seeds or gravel.

The extent of the problem seemed evident in the praise for wetland laws now in effect in New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine. The remainder of the United States and Canadian Provinces are doing so poorly in saving wetlands that these four states were considered exemplary in comparison. The full impact of this can be recognized only by those New Englanders who are outdoorsmen and know how poorly these most progressive states are doing in maintaining the quality of wetlands.

The major pressure against wetlands at the moment exists in the Canadian prairie lands whose potholes have been prime duck areas. Ducks fly back there each spring to find more former potholes supporting a wheat crop. Philip B. Aus of the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife reported that Saskatchewan cleared 300,000 acres of duck marshes for farming in 1968 alone. Other provinces and the northern United States prairie states have continued drainage. Although there are laws and wetland programs that would seem to protect wetlands, Aus said that major areas have disappeared between 1966 and 1968.

Few ducks that visit New England ever fly to the western pothole country. Yet the disappearance of western marshes has a direct effect upon them. A heavy infusion of western ducks filters into the Atlantic flyway near Chesapeake Bay and these birds form part of the duck population that is hunted in Dixie. Reduction of western ducks increases the hunting pressure on the New England and Maritime populations that winter in the south.

For many years, waterfowl devotees felt that the major problems facing many of the ducks and geese that nest in the far north centered upon the shrinking wetlands of Dixie, where these birds spend the winter. The far north seemed safe from disturbances associated with human exploitation of resources. But the recent oil discoveries in the Arctic and the rush to develop technological means of exploiting the pools place even these remote nesting grounds in jeopardy.

IT'S IN THE BAG!
By Martha Moore

"I did it and I'm Glad." That's what many a plastic bag might say if it could talk, for ingenious home economists are coming up with a delightful variety of jobs that the "Glad" plastic bags can do.

-Make hamburger patties in advance, slip into plastic sandwich bags, place six or eight in an airtight plastic food storage bag and freeze. They will be easy to separate when needed and will keep in the freezer for about three months.

-For added protection when working with poison ivy, slip plastic food storage bags over your gardening gloves. Dispose of the bags when you are through.

-Before packing sweaters and woolens away for the summer, place them in plastic bags and store overnight in the freezer. The low temperature should kill all moths.

-Take extra plastic bags in your suitcase. They will come in handy for wet washcloths, bathing suits and laundry.

-Keep matches in waterproof plastic bags on camping and fishing trips.

-Keep plastic bags in glove compartment of car for accidental sicknesses.

Major Westcott Is Honored

U. S. Air Force Major Lawrence P. Westcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Westcott, 61 Harold Parker Road, has been decorated with his third award of the Distinguished Flying Cross for aerial achievement in Vietnam.

Major Westcott, a navigator, distinguished himself when he helped defend the district town of Cal Nuoc, that was under attack by a company of enemy troops. His accuracy in handling all air-ground communications and identifying dispersed enemy positions enabled the crew to rapidly engage and suppress enemy firing positions and force a retreat.

The major was presented the medal at England AFB, La., where he is now assigned to a unit of the Tactical Air Command. He was commissioned in 1953 through the aviation cadet program.

A graduate of Hanover High School, Major Westcott attended Northeastern University in Boston, and received his B. S. degree from Boston University in 1952. He earned his M. A. degree at the University of North Dakota in 1967.

His wife, Hilda, is the daughter of Mrs. Ella Kruger, Krumville, N. Y.

New Exhibit At Gallery

Conscience - The Ultimate Weapon, is a new exhibit at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, April 12-May 11.

Conscience, a multi-projection, sound presentation of contemporary social issues based upon the photographs of Benedict J. Fernandez, was directed by Nathan Lyons, associate director and curator of Photography of the Eastman House, Rochester, N. Y. Ten projection units with 780 slides and four synchronized sound units have been employed by Mr. Lyons to create a thematic environmental experience.

The show at Andover is contained in two galleries. In the first, Bob Dylan's, The Times Are A-Changing, is accompanied by projected fragments of 20th century social history. In the second gallery, to the right, you are confronted by the sombre tensions of recent times, which are followed, in the center, by views of public reactions and protest, not without occasional glimpses of light-heartedness. Finally, to the left, is a sequence, grim, contemplative and soul-challenging - poignant reminders of the unnecessary pathos and death which attends violence. You are there; you are not watching a show.

David Vestal, Popular Photography, January 1969 said "The theme is dissent as a right of Americans. The individual photograph has little importance here; the cumulative effect of all the show's sights and sounds is what counts."

A. D. Coleman, The Village Voice, December 19, 1969: "Conscience is the first photographic exhibit in my experience which left me emotionally shaken. Formally, it is the most experimental exhibit I have seen, but it succeeds at everything it attempts. And, due to its extraordinary relevance, it stands as a painfully pure distillation of the essential mood of the American present."

The Addison Gallery is open to the public without charge: Mondays through Saturdays from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.; Sundays 2:30 - 5 p.m.

Mrs. Shack Heads Auction Group

Mrs. Norman M. Shack of Andover is a committee member for the Andover, Lawrence, Lowell area, for the collection of items for the silent auction to be held at Gov. Dummer Academy, Byfield on May 1.

The auction is to be held at the Mansion House on the campus of the academy. Proceeds will support special projects at the academy.

Refreshments will be served during the auction and visitors will be able to tour the academy buildings and grounds.

Mullen Heads Cancer Drive

Donald M. Mullen, branch manager of the Bay State Merchants National Bank in Andover, has been named chairman of the Andover Chapter of the American Cancer Society's 1969 educational and fund-raising Crusade.

The appointment was announced by Theodore Lyman Jr., Chairman of the Massachusetts Cancer Crusade.

Mr. Mullen in accepting the position in this area noted that the American Cancer Society had expanded its slogan for the Crusade. "This year, the ACS says it this way: 'Help yourself with a check-up and others with a check.'"

The first man to receive the Medal of Honor was Army Colonel

Bernard J. D. Irwin, for heroism against the Indians in what is now Arizona.

Editorial Comment

Richard J. Bowen

This week the TOWNSMAN gets a bit personal in its editorial comments.

We initiate this comment by wishing Town Manager Richard J. Bowen success in his new position as city manager in Portsmouth, N. H.

All of us as human beings, we might comment, have our faults.

Mr. Bowen probably had his as manager in Andover.

As Andover's chief administrator, however, we must comment that he was a most competent leader.

Many of the things he proposed were not completely acceptable by the townspeople, but he had foresight and knowledge to be aware of Andover's future needs.

He, of course is blamed for Andover's tax rate — when in reality it is the townspeople themselves who are responsible for the municipal costs of operating Andover.

He did not have control over the largest municipal budget — the school department.

Mr. Bowen was the subject of controversy from time to time. This was an indication that he did not shirk from issues. He was firm in his convictions.

We feel that he was a very capable administrator while here in Andover.

We feel also, in a day and age of problems with the young people of our generation, our association with his family has been one which merits commendation.

The courtesy extended by his children is something of which a parent can be proud. They are exemplary.

As Mr. Bowen takes his leave of Andover, we again wish him well, and compliment him on his administration of government here in Andover for the over four years he was here.

Still on a personal note, we might comment on —

Miss Florence Prevost

Who will observe her 100th birthday next week.

Miss Prevost, now residing in Canada, taught first grade in Andover for many years, will reach the century mark on April 25.

The initial grade of public school, is considered the most difficult, yet the most vital.

As she observes the centennial of her birth, we take the opportunity to extend Andover's gratitude to a woman who started hundreds of people on a proper educational course.

Adhering to our theme, we would like to also make another personal comment, this time mentioning an Andover resident who rose to national prominence this past week.

Dr. Robert Lennon

— Who was instrumental in the transplantation of vital organs at a Houston, Texas hospital.

Dr. Lennon, a firm believer in the preservation of life through transplantation, displayed great courage in making the decisions necessary on two particular occasions.

Transplants remain in the area of controversy at this particular time.

Their value, is constantly under discussion by medical authorities, some favoring, some opposing.

Medical science, however, moves on in the direction of preserving life, extending the cycle and years to which man has been disposed to his earthly existence.

That Dr. Lennon had the courage to make the decisions, to talk to the families involved during the past week, we think is commendable.

Indeed, it is heartening to realize that within our community, is a man who truly believes in the preservation of life, and has exemplified his interest.

****

Of all American college graduates, about four percent have had the benefit of Army ROTC training. From this small group have come 22% of the business executives now earning over $100,000 a year, 16% of our Congressmen and 14% of our state governors.

The Flag

We were particularly appalled at a picture which appeared in public print recently, showing young people sitting on the American flag while awaiting a demonstration march in Atlanta, Ga.

We have been particularly concerned recently of the complete disrespect for the National Ensign, not only in the instance mentioned but in other disrespectful displays.

Recently, here in the Bay State, the American flag was dragged along the street at the end of an automobile tail pipe.

Such disrespect, we feel, completely violates all American standards.

The red, white and blue, star-studded standard of our country has been fought for over the centuries.

That disrespectful youth place it on the ground, sit on it, drag it over the streets, etc. violates all theories of true respect and the memory of those who died to protect our freedom.

If protest must take place, rightly or wrongly, then let it take place without disgracing the proud symbol of our country.

Off The Top Of The Desk

For the devout Isaac Walton's of the community, this is their week. The fishing season is about to open and the stocked streams and lakes, no doubt will be assaulted over the weekend.

Not only are the fishermen going to have their day, but the avid golfers have found the links open and ready for the weekend.

If it isn't TV for hockey, baseball or basketball, then it will be the active participation in the outdoor sports that is bound to produce the usual "weekend widows," for many a housewife.

The State police have acquired a helicopter to be used in law enforcement and safety work. Under a special grant from the U. S. Department of Transportation, the public safety unit will use the five seat jet powered helicopter for law enforcement purposes, but will also be available for rescue operations.

It will be equipped with litters capable of transporting two injured persons in case of accident. The funding of the project also provides for the training of three state police officers as pilots for the helicopter.

A word of appreciation comes to the desk from John J. Twomey, serving in Vietnam. He addressed a card of appreciation for remembering him aboard the USS New Jersey during the Christmas holidays, both through the Operation Morale listing in the TOWNSMAN, and also for the greeting card sent from this office.

The Veterans Administration has come up with new pajamas for its patients. The VA has purchased 15,000 pairs of flame retardant pajamas for its patients.

Bans on smoking in bed remain in effect in VA hospitals, but the new man-made fibres in the pajamas tend to lessen the possibility of accident for the many veterans who smoke while being treated at the hospitals.

While spring has just begun, there are ever present signs of the summer season. Seen in back yards and around the surrounding areas, are people getting their boats ready for launching as soon as it appears feasible to drop them into the water.

The scraping and painting is now feverishly underway getting the craft ready for the water.

Also being prepared for the vacation season which is just around the corner, are campers and trailers as families prepare for weekend retreats or vacations in the coming months.

Suddenly nature blooms forth with buds, etc. and there are the scars of winter that cause the need for attention. There are fences in need of paint, yards in need of raking, portions of the home which need attention.

Ah yes? Spring, what a beautiful time of year. But, it reveals need for attention to some of the things we have been putting off during those winter months.

Cadette Troop 91 of St. Paul's Church in North Andover will present Mrs. Eleanor Boylan and her Puppet Workshop on Saturday, April 19 at the Atkinson school at 2 p.m.

This is the first appearance of this type show in the Greater Lawrence area. In addition to the "puppet show", instructions, and demonstrations, a discussion period will be held which will cover all phases of puppet shows, both in the staging and construction of puppets.

Mrs. Boylan has been active in puppet shows for the past 25 years in children theaters throughout the east coast. This is an opportunity for local groups to gain first-hand instruction to enable them to form their own shows at home and at troop meetings.

The proceeds from this show will be used by the Cadettes to help defray expenses on a trip they are planning to Nantucket this spring.

Tickets will be available at the door.

More than 34 million of the 44.6 million workers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law are now entitled to a minimum wage of $1.60 an hour. The remainder -- brought under the law by the amendments of 1966 -- are currently due a minimum of $1.30, according to the Labor Department.

The demand for professional and technical workers continues to increase at a rapid pace. The Labor Department projects a requirement of 13 million workers in these occupational groups by 1975, up 45 percent from the 9 million working in professional and technical jobs in 1965, and up 73 percent from the 1960 level.

twice-monthly publication.

Selectmen Philip K. Allen and Roger W. Collins Monday night expressed their regret at Bowen's leaving.

Bowen came to Andover in July 1964, succeeding Andover's first town manager Thomas E. Duff. He has served as manager in Wells, Maine and has been in administrative posts in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut communities.

Several major projects were undertaken during his tenure in Andover, among them the Bancroft school--a building quite different and the first to be built with the ungraded educational concept in mind.

It was also during his tenure that Andover was chosen by three major industries to locate here, namely, Gillette Toiletries, Allied Chemical Co., and the Brockway, Smith, Haigh, Lovell Co.

Also during his term in office here, Raytheon Manufacturing Co. decided to build an $8,000,000 industrial complex off Route 93 near Lowell Street--a subject which drew the largest attendance at a town meeting in the history of the town. The land was rezoned at the meeting and Raytheon now has the complex under construction.

Will Intern At Kansas Medical

Peter J. Grillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grillo of 8 Sherry Drive, will intern in surgery at the University of Kansas Medical Center.

A fourth year student at the Harvard Medical School, Mr. Grillo received the B. A. degree cum laude from Yale University in 1965.

Development Through Conservation

A while ago I drew a rather grim picture of what could happen if a refinery were built at Machiasport without the strictest and most modern pollution control.

According to my husband, a system analyst, even though I emphasized the importance of planning for pollution control as well as the horrors of the smell and sight of oil pollution, I put only logic behind the call for control, while

I also put the full force of feminine emotion behind the dislike of pollution.

"Be sure you always look at the total picture," he said. "You can't afford to be one-sided. What we need is a systems approach to social, industrial, and conservation problems. All our problems are part of one total environmental system, so you have to consider all the factors involved and how they act upon each other."

Well, I ran that through my computer to see what would happen.

I could get rather lyrical about the beauties of both electricity and oil. No one is more grateful for the washing machine and dryer than I am... I still remember my mother with washtubs and clotheslines. The Mondays she spent doing laundry and the Tuesdays she spent doing ironing (bless drip-dry clothes) I can spend on such things as working for conservation or taking the children to the beach (thanks to gasoline and oil).

I would not want to do without either modern industry or the beauty of nature. The answer, of course, is that industry must no longer get its traditional free ride on nature.

I do my own dirty dishes, and it is high time that industry did the same. The same goes for communities without sewage treatment plants. If oil refineries, chicken farms, potato processors, paper mills, towns, etc., point out that their pollution of air or water or land is traditional, I say, "It was a mistake. Now we know better, so by golly tackle that kitchen full of dirty dishes and clean it up. Better late than never."

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine said it very well in his recent special message on development through conservation.

"Certain resources that we have long taken for granted in Maine are coming into short supply," said Governor Curtis. "Clean air, clean water, open space, recreation opportunities -- these elements, in which Maine abounds, are becoming more valuable every day. Nevertheless, demands are beginning to mount on these precious resources of ours, and Maine must, therefore, plan and pass intelligent legislation in order to avoid the despoiling effects of chaotic, helter-skelter growth that has left such gaping wounds in other states and in a few locations here in Maine..."

"Conservation and economic development cannot be regarded as independent or antagonistic goals. They are, in reality, the same goal. Our people will be less hostile to some forms of industrial development if we have laws, vigorously enforced, that demand protection of the environment. We will, with strong conservation laws, attract industries that value our environment and that want to share the benefits and costs of its protection. We will, through our commitment to conservation, protect natural resources of incalculable economic value. In short, development without conservation is unthinkable and illusory. We would destroy resources as rapidly as we gained them."

TEACHER

By the time Florence Prevost retired in 1934, her former pupil Catherine Barrett had taught at Stowe school and had become principal of three buildings, Jackson, Stowe and also the John Dove school, which was later torn down and replaced by the present Central Elementary school building.

Still in use today are Jackson, for special education classes, and Stowe which houses the sixth graders from Central and the spill-over sixth grade classes from Shawsheen school.

When Miss Prevost retired in December, 1934, she was honored for "carrying her high ideals out in her work, maintaining high educational standards, developing character and leaving an imprint on the social life and the children of more than one generation of Andover."

The then superintendent, Henry C. Sanborn, said at the time that it would never be possible to estimate the far reaching influence of her work in the Andover schools.

Miss May Elander, 96 Elm St., a former pupil, received an invitation to Miss Prevost's birthday party and called the TOWNSMAN, with the thought that there might be many Andover residents who would like to send a 100th birthday card to Miss Prevost, in care of her nephew, Maj. Gen. Phelan.

preparing your POOL for SUMMER

WHEN SPRING WINGS IN, SWIMMING POOL OWNERS WAIT EAGERLY FOR WEATHER WARM ENOUGH TO TAKE THE FIRST PLUNGE AND THESE TIPS FROM JOHNS-MANVILLE WILL HELP YOU DO IT AS EFFICIENTLY AS THE EXPERTS.

1. REMOVE PROTECTIVE WINTER COVERS FROM POOL AND EQUIPMENT, THEN SWEEP INSIDE AREAS CLEAN OF DEBRIS AND DIRT. DETERMINE IF ANY CRACKING OF WALLS OR FLOOR HAS OCCURRED, OR IF PAINTING IS NEEDED.

2. IF ALL IS IN ORDER, TURN ON WATER TO FILL. WHILE FILLING, EXAMINE EXPOSED VALVES, CONTROLS AND PIPES FOR LEAKAGE. IF ANY MAJOR LEAKS ARE OBSERVED, TURN OFF WATER AND GET PROFESSIONAL HELP.

3. FOLLOW MANUFACTURER'S DIRECTIONS FOR OILING AND CLEANING PUMP AND MOTOR BEFORE FILTER IS PUT INTO OPERATION. THIS CAN BE DONE AS SOON AS WATER REACHES FILTER INTAKE PIPE.

4. FOR EFFICIENT OPERATION OF A MODERN, DIATOMITE FILTER, CIRCULATE A MIXTURE OF J-M CELITE AND WATER INTO THE FILTER. A SUPPLY OF CELITE SHOULD BE PUT INTO THE BODY FEED APPARATUS, IF ONE IS USED. FOR EVERY 10 SQUARE FEET OF FILTER AREA, 1 1/2 TO 2 LBS. OF DIATOMITE ARE RECOMMENDED. A 1 LB. COFFEE CAN HOLDS 1 1/2 LBS. OF CELITE FILTER AID.

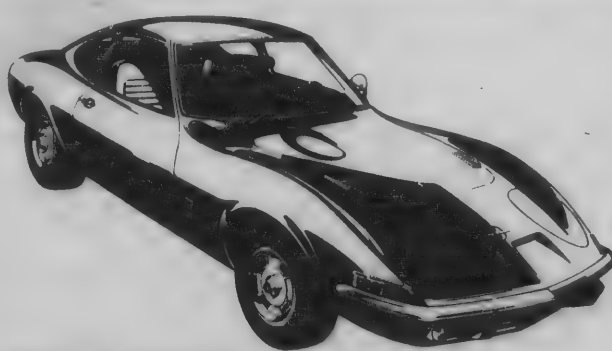

5. DURING FILTRATION OF A NEWLY-FILLED POOL THE WATER, THOUGH PROPERLY FIT FOR DRINKING, WILL BE CLOUDY AT FIRST, BUT AS PROCESS PROGRESSES, IT WILL BECOME SPARKLING AND CLEAR. AFTER POOL IS FILLED, ADD SUFFICIENT CHLORINE AND OTHER CHEMICALS NECESSARY TO FIGHT GROWTH OF BACTERIA AND ALGAE.

THEN, WEATHER PERMITTING, YOU'RE ALL SET FOR A HAPPY SEASON OF SWIMMING.

UNDER STUDY. Paula Tatarunis, a senior at Andover High school, at a microscope, doing some of her scientific research.

Conducts Research Project

An Andover High school senior has spent the entire year on college-level research into plant growth control in the high school's Advanced Lab, a lab in which no classes are taught, but any student is free to pursue scientific research.

Paula Tatarunis will receive academic credit for her private painstaking research attempting to simplify the procedures of one of the country's foremost plant physiologists, Dr. F. C. Stewart of Cornell, who demonstrated principles of plant growth by growing a complete carrot from a single cell of carrot root.

Paula is growing carrot tissue by implanting slices of carrot in different exotic growth mediums, some natural hormones, some synthetic, and comparing the resultant growth. She is trying to combine Stewart's research findings, published in 1963, with those of California scientist Walter Halpern, a critic of Stewart.

Paula had to spend almost half the school year perfecting techniques to overcome the problems of successful tissue growth. She must work under aseptic conditions, and fight the kind of problems that best all scientific research: one of these was the death of some promising carrot tissue over Christmas vacation, and during the February snow storms that closed school. Right now, the large incubator in the Advanced Science Lab has nearly 40 culture tubes, each containing a little chip of carrot in agar containing growth mediums.

They don't look like much, but Paula can show you that some of the chips are growing in size, and she compares the growth in different mediums.

Biology instructor William Deacon said Paula's research goes far beyond the first-class high school science project and borders on original work, a rare accolade for anyone in scientific work, let alone a high school senior.

Deacon said the significance of Paula's work lay not only in conclusions she may reach, and the possibility of contributing to scientific knowledge on the control of plant tissue, but in her understanding of the discipline required by true scientific research, not only painstaking procedures in the lab, and trying again after failures, but the extensive reading to find out what other people have done in the field.

Deacon described Paula as "a very exceptional girl, one of those complete individuals who can excel in all areas."

Exceptional indeed. Paula, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Tatarunis, 8 Lincoln Circle, is editor-in-chief of the school newspaper, THE IMPRINT, was chosen to play clarinet in the All-State Band, and plays five other instruments, is a member of the Youth Symphony and the school orchestra and is an all A student.

Paula has already won a Bausche and Lomb scholarship to the University of Rochester, but will have a choice of colleges to choose from. Her career aim? To be a doctor.

She's already taken a giant step toward that goal, in the Advanced Lab at the high school. Biologist Deacon explained the philosophy of the Advanced Lab, with Paula as exhibit A. It is a laboratory open to the independent use, for credit, of any student whose project is of sufficient worth to receive Honors credit course. It is also open to students who are not working for credit, but simply wish to pursue scientific projects on their own time, for their own interest.

"It's use is strictly an interest factor," Deacon said. This year we've had a boy working in biochemistry on a course of his own, boys working with magnetism, and with bromine, and several girls who have been accepted into nursing school are doing blood work there."

Weeping Willow Symbol Of Spring

Earlier than the robin and with more assurance than a spring peeper, the weeping willow proclaims spring in a golden haze of glory.

It seems strange that a tree as foreign as the weeping willow should symbolize spring to many New Englanders. Yet, it does. It has since colonial days for the weeping willow was an early import, closely associated with the early settlers' European background. The willow also had religious significance to colonials—a funereal one, as thousands of crocheted samplers in countless homes and museums testify.

One might say that the weeping willow almost suffers anxiety toward spring, for it begins heralding in December the warm, wet days to come. When the late afternoon sun of winter strikes weeping willow limbs the glow of yellow becomes almost as vibrant as the tinkle of bells. One might think that the limbs are as yellow then as yellow can be. But the yellow matures into golden splendor as winter dies and spring takes the burden of the seasons.

Earlier we spoke of an European background for the immigrant weeping willow. Yet, it is no more European in origin than many of the peoples of Europe. It came from farther east, indeed, its homeland seems to be the mountainous valley of the Yangtze River of China. It was a cultivated tree of Chinese estates thousands of years before Christ. It reminds us of a peculiar fact about China: that the Sino-Japanese region produces in the wild so many plants pleasing to the human eye that the area is known among botanists as "the Mother of Gardens."

Despite the antiquity of weeping willows as lawn decorators, the yellowest seems to be a variety of the white willow, Salix alba, which may have hybridized with the ancient weeping willow form. This so-called "yellow weeping willow" first was recognized in France in 1815.

The ancient weeping willow acquired the scientific name of Salix babylonica—literally "willow of Babylon"—through a misunderstanding by Carl Linnaeus, the developer of scientific names. Linnaeus, the son of a Swedish minister, mistook the weeping willow as the tree referred to in Psalm 137 which reports "We hanged our harps upon the willows..." in Babylon. "Mistook" may be too harsh a word for Linnaeus' action, since it was commonly believed in Europe that those Old Testament harps dangled from the weeping willow.

Later scholarship indicates that the Biblical willow was not a true willow but a willow-relative, a poplar tree named Populus euphratica—"poplar of the Euphrates (River)". It was the commonest willow-like tree of Babylon. It is doubted that the weeping willow had been introduced in the Middle East when the poetical muse struck David.

Willows exist throughout the world north of the Equator and range far into the Arctic, well beyond the so-called tree line. The average willow, of course, does not "weep". Its branches are as upright as any tree's. But in penetrating the Arctic and Arctic zone areas such as the peak of Mt. Washington, willows resort to unusual growth patterns. In these inhospitable regions, a willow tree may grow flat on the ground, its tallest branches reaching less than an inch toward the sky. As an Arctic expert once said, "In this region you might mistake a willow tree for a patch of clover."

Cauliflower Au Gratin Tops As Companion To Standing Rib Roast

The holiday season reaches a pleasure peak when the thoughtful homemaker serves her family or guests the most regal cut of all—prime standing rib roast. Luxurious beef like this is heightened in flavor appeal when it is smoke-roasted in a covered kettle barbecue, then augmented with the rich taste of a special vegetable treat.

For this, we suggest cauliflower au gratin, baked right alongside the standing rib roast in the barbecue kettle. This dish is as attractive as it is tempting and diners will be sure to ply the hostess for the recipe. So, here it is:

Cauliflower au Gratin

1 large head cauliflower
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
Salt & pepper to taste

Break cauliflower into flowerettes, wash thoroughly and boil in salt water until semi-hard to fork test. Mix remaining ingredients as a sauce in the following manner. Melt butter and sauté onion until golden, stir in flour and add milk gradually, stirring until sauce has thickened. Arrange flowerettes in a casserole and pour the sauce over them. For the topping, combine:

2 tablespoons melted butter
1/4 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Sprinkle topping over cauliflower and add several dashes of grated Parmesan cheese for color. Bake uncovered in medium heat until topping has turned to a golden brown.

In preparing the standing rib roast, allow the meat to reach room temperature before placing it on the barbecue grill. Rub outside of the roast with peanut oil and season generously with salt and coarsely ground pepper. Roast by indirect heat method with a foil drip pan in the center under the meat. Cover the kettle and allow about 13 minutes per pound.

Zoning And The Suburbs

By Polly Bradley

There is increasing pressure for the suburbs to provide land for low income housing. Some people are saying that zoning laws are based more on white racism . . . or upper and middle class fear of the poor . . . than on concern about the quality of the environment.

There are two sides to the argument . . . but in a larger context, they are two sides of one coin.

What makes the suburbs at their best a desirable place to live? Natural beauty and open space. The problems of the city will not be solved by overcrowding the suburbs and bringing the faults of the city to an ever-widening environment of slurb. Shacks of tiny lots (a la Mississippi) or a countryside full of apartments (the inner city, too, was once countryside) have never solved our social problems.

Neither will the problems of crime, poverty, racism, and social chaos be solved by the suburbs building walls and hoping to confine the troubles to the inner city and the disadvantaged. We are all in this world together, and what one does touches all. If the cities explode in despair and frustration, no zoning wall will be high enough to keep the suburbs safe.

If we are going to preserve an America worth living in, we need a total environmental approach that will deal with both social problems and environmental problems. Both must be solved if our society is to survive.

One of the wisest total approaches is the concept of using nature as a guide to new development, as suggested by Ian McHarg in his new book Design With Nature. Rather than arbitrarily zoning an entire town in two-acre lots or whatever, towns should study the lay of the land to see which areas should be left as open space (such as marshes and other water recharging areas, steep slopes, river and stream banks, and hill ridges), which should be kept for farming (fertile agricultural land, naturally), which should be used for housing, etc. This approach would leave room for open space and conservation land, for individual homes and higher-density cluster zoning areas, for business and industry.

The open land would be left where it is most needed . . . and would provide recreation and natural beauty for both old suburbanites and the new residents fleeing from the unnatural existence of the inner city. And nature itself would create genuine neighborhoods . . . something people seem to need, but which neither city nor suburb provides under the present arbitrary use of the land.

It would be extremely dangerous to repeal existing zoning laws across the board without providing for wise land use according to nature's rules. Some developers are quite willing to claim to be fighting prejudice when they are really interested in lining their own pockets by selling cheap shacks on tiny lots which can only increase both conservation and social problems.

On the other hand, no conservation approach can succeed without considering the problems of both the city and the country. The concept of "designing with nature" may provide an over-all framework to deal with total land use creatively and rationally.

The U.S. Employment Service is making a concerted effort to help veterans of the military service become re-established in civilian jobs. Representatives of the local offices of the State Employment Services offered assistance to nearly 200,000 newly-released veterans during the final six months of 1968.

Nearly half - or 40% - of the men and women learning job skills in the Labor Department's classroom training projects this past summer had been unemployed for six months or longer prior to training.

Scholarship Concert Set For Friday

The Andover Male Choir will present a concert Friday night at 8 p.m. in the West Junior High school auditorium. The concert is the annual event sponsored by the group for its scholarship fund.

Annually the group presents a scholarship to an Andover High school graduate whose intent is to further their musical education.

This year the Male choir will have as its guests, the A Capella choir and Madrigal Singers of Andover High school. Both are under the direction of Keith Gould, choral instructor at West Junior High school.

A featured performance will be Kathy Morrissey and her folk singing and guitar.

J. Everett Collins is the director and Maxine Calt will be pianist.

Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nolf, Jr., of Westchester, Ill., announce the marriage of their daughter, Sandra Hazard, 11 Sherry Drive, to Thomas Parkman Stark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Stark, of Reading.

The ceremony took place in Christ Episcopal Church, April 11. Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, minister emeritus at Phillips Academy, officiated.

Kindergarten Registration

Kindergarten registration for the public schools will be held as follows: South school, April 16 and 17; West school, April 29 and 30; Shawsheen school, May 1 and 2; Sanborn school, May 5 and 6; Bancroft school, May 7 and 8; Central school, May 13 and 14.

Parents, please notify the principal of the school your child will attend. It is most important that the schools know the children who will be enrolled.

Appointments are being made for kindergarten registrations.

Mrs. Wayne Robert Donle

Donle - Brown

Miss Carolyn Beatrice Brown, daughter of Mrs. Charles Knowlton Brown, 38 Chestnut St., became the bride of Wayne Robert Donle on March 22 in North Andover's St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Raymond Donle, 24 Scranton Ave., Falmouth.

Miss Brown was given away by her brother, John Knowlton Brown in the 2 o'clock ceremony performed by Rev. Alexander Twombly, rector of St. Paul's.

The bride wore a satin A-line gown with hand-run Alencon lace trim and an elbow-length mantilla of matching lace. Her bouquet was of daisies, stephanotis, baby's breath and English ivy.

She was attended by Miss Marsha W. Dishman of Granby, as maid of honor, wearing an A-line gown of Nile green lanteen with contrasting green satin ribbon trim.

The bridesmaids, Misses Faith Ann Collins of Wayland, Clarinda Santos Donle of Reading and Susan Whitcomb Kelly of Rye, N. H., wore similar gowns of yellow lanteen, with ribbon trim of contrasting green.

All the attendants wore yellow and white daisy headpieces and carried baskets of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and jonquils.

Bruce Kincaid Donle of Reading served his brother as best man, and Joseph Francis Cusano of Wethersfield, Conn., David George Fry of East Northport, Long Island, N. Y., and another brother, Keith Raymond Donle of Falmouth were ushers.

A reception at the Lanam Club followed the ceremony. The mother of the bride wore a soft aqua dress and matching coat, while Mr. Donle's mother wore a rose brocade dress with a matching coat.

The bride graduated from North Reading High School and received her B. S. in home economics from the University of New Hampshire in 1967. She is executive secretary at the American Hospital Supply Corporation and is a member of the Intercollegiate Club of Boston.

Mr. Donle is a Reading High School graduate, and holds a B. S. in mechanical engineering from Rochester Institute of Technology. He is a mechanical engineer for the Itel Corporation.

After a wedding trip to London, the couple is at home at Nutting Lake, Billerica.

RECEIVES AWARD

Mrs. Ralph Fearon of Raytown, Missouri formerly Shirley A. Murray, R.N. of 266 Salem St., was recently presented the "Outstanding Young Woman" award by the Raytown Jaycees. Mrs. Fearon was cited for her work in helping establish a mental health clinic and her work with youngsters.

East Junior High To Present Play Friday And Saturday

The Student Government Association of Andover East Junior High school will present the Pulitzer prize award-winning play "Harvey" on Friday and Saturday evenings, April 18 and 19, in Memorial Auditorium.

"Harvey" is a three-act comedy about an eccentric millionaire, Elwood P. Dowd, played by Richard Romeo, who after wrestling with reality for 40 years, finally conquers it. Heeding his mother's advice to be either smart or pleasant, Dowd chooses the latter. With his faithful companion, the six-foot rabbit Harvey, Elwood goes about spreading his brand of cheer.

Susan Forney plays his distraught sister who finally decides she would rather have him pleasant than normal. During the course of his "Cure," Andy Russem, as the distinguished Dr. Chumly, is converted to Elwood's point of view, while his assistant, Robert Battles, and nurse, Cheryl Keamy almost lose their jobs in the ensuing confusion.

The following students are also members of the cast: Nora Kyger, Maryjane Poland, Mary Ellen Lucy, James Palmieri, Elaine LeGendre, Joseph Normandy, and Randell Bedell.

P. A. Teams Get Off To Good Start

Two Phillips Academy varsity teams were off to promising starts last Saturday. The lacrosse team beat the Yale freshmen 11-9 with the help of Andover residents Dana Seero, Per Bro, Rick Lux and "Chuck" Landry. The well-stocked golf squad (a four-handicapper was the eighth man) surprised New England Prep champion Tabor Academy by a 6-1/2-5-1/2 score.

Crucial games are near that can decide the fate of P. A. athletic teams this spring. Both baseball and golf face the Yale freshmen this Saturday at home. Next Wednesday, the lacrosse squad takes on the feared Boston Lacrosse Club at Andover. The tennis and track teams oppose the Dartmouth frosh this Saturday.

Looking ahead, it appears that Andover will have little trouble with its traditional rivals, such as Exeter, Deerfield, and Mt. Hermon. The main threat to varsity teams this spring will come from college freshmen squads, which are often older and more experienced.

Alleycats Adopt New Constitution

The Andover Alleycats met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Garrett. High scores for the month were:

High single, Duncan Black, 203; Elaine Stein, 180.

High triple, Duncan Black, 565; Ruth Kenney, 470.

High couple, Mr. and Mrs. Kenney, 1019.

The constitution for the group was finally ratified by its members.

The play is being directed by James Hartmann with Jane Ketchen as student assistant.

The following faculty members are cooperating: Mrs. M. Adelaide Coleman, Mrs. Emma Lou Danforth, Mrs. Catherine Hitz, Mrs. Sue Ann Hutchinson, Mrs. Christa Jessico, Paul Ociepa, John Powers, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Mrs. Adele Phillips, Miss Sally Buone.

Usherettes include - Susan Desjardin, Patricia Dodd, Katherine Driscoll, Pamela Ellis, Ann Geraghty, Patricia Osborne, Sandra Poleatewich, Katherine Babicki, Edith DeBolt, Valerie Pierrat, Sandy Stovall, Julie VanSchalkwyk, Linda Clapp, Carolyn DuFault, Diane Griffin, Ruth Williams, Debra Webb.

Stores Open On Monday

Monday will be observed as a state holiday this year, under new regulations adopted by the legislature, but most all downtown stores will be open.

The observance of Patriots Day, ordinarily celebrated April 19, will be observed on Monday, April 21 this year, allowing some industries to give employees a three day holiday.

Sunday rules, however, do not apply to this particular holiday, thus downtown merchants may open and do business as usual. Most plan to be open, according to the retail division of the Andover Chamber of Commerce.

Seaman At Funeral Of Eisenhower

Seaman Apprentice Steven A. Smith, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Smith of 16 Burton Farm Drive., represented the Coast Guard at the funeral procession of former President Dwight David Eisenhower in Washington March 31.

A 176-man regiment of recruits from the Cape May Training Center, N. J. marched down Constitution Avenue with units representing the other four branches of the Armed Services.

The members of the Coast Guard's marching unit were selected from eight different companies currently undergoing basic training at the Cape May Training Center.

Tidy Town Campaign Next Week

It's spring. Robins are hopping about on the lookout for worms between the beer cans. Children have had their Easter egg hunts amid the blowing litter. It's time to pick up.

National clean-up week coincides with Andover's school vacation, and the Tidy Town Committee has been making plans for a clean-up effort that week, and for a neater town on a long term basis. The committee is confident that the "trashy element" in town will crumble under the attack between April 21 and 26. During this period, town trucks will tour the streets giving house holders a free haul-away. High school boys will be doing a vacation job on highway beer cans. On Wednesday between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, volunteer groups will enter the picture. Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and Junior Garden Club members are planning to tackle specific areas of pollution about town. They will be rewarded for their efforts with refreshments donated by Mr. Curtin of MacDonald's, and Mr. Coffman of Pepsi Cola.

Helping them to get into the swing of the pick-up, a 20 minute film, "Keep America Beautiful" is being shown to elementary school groups just before the holiday. Homeowners have already gotten underway with yard and garden chores. The Tidy Town Committee urges townspeople to "Think Spring," "Plant Trees not Trash" and principally to "Keep Andover Tidy."

Scout Troop Plans Historic Hike April 19

Boy Scout Troop 72 will hike the Isaac Davis Trail on Patriot's Day Saturday, April 19th. The trail hiked on this commemorative occasion is the authentic trail traveled in 1775 by Capt. Isaac Davis and his band of now famous Citizen-Soldiers.

Scouts from the local troop will leave Andover Friday evening and camp overnight in Acton. Saturday morning the boys will join with some 1500 other scouts to hike the heritage trail terminating at the Old North Bridge in Concord. Ceremonies there will commemorate the historic beginning of the American Revolution. Scouts of Troop 72, sponsored by the Free Christian Church, U.C.C., will be under the direction of Scoutmasters John Beanland and Harry Bedell.

100 S Andover Supt.

One hundred men to become superintendents in Andover.

They come from the District of Columbia, from West Africa, from West Africa.

Over 50 of the men have had administrative experience above the level of a school principal.

Yesterday the men began a series of interviews. They were the out-of-town men as most desirable for the post by Dr. Harvard's Graduate School of Education, himself an independent and one of the American Association of Superintendents.

They will also interview I. Clapp, Andover superintendent for schools since 1968.

Dr. Hunt, a principal and hunter, of applicants for school post was the
